- to create a corporate culture in which safety, health and environmental protection (EHS) and the conscious use of energy are integrated into all activities. This can only be achieved through the active cooperation of all employees. For this reason, we want to inform and educate our employees so well that they can actively take on co-responsibility and thus consult and involve employees and their representatives.
- to lead the company as a responsible member of society. We are committed to continuously improving the use of energy resources and our EHS performance.

Therefore, in our production we strive to use existing possibilities to avoid pollutant and noise emissions, save energy and water, avoid, reduce or recycle waste.
- to conduct an open and objective dialogue with authorities, business partners, neighbors and the interested public about the environmental policy of our company and to be open to suggestions for improvement.
- to observe ecological and energy-efficient criteria in the procurement of our raw and auxiliary materials, as well as in the purchase of services - as far as possible and economically justifiable -, and to consciously give preference to suppliers or service providers, who place a similarly high value on EHS as we do and who support us in improving our energy-related performance.
- to provide all resources necessary to achieve the strategic and operational goals in terms of occupational health and safety, energy and environmental policy, and to ensure the availability of the necessary information
